> For many years afterward May 30th served as the official day for Decoration Day/ Memorial Day until it was changed in 1968 to the third Monday of May

The name Memorial Day began being used in 1882, however the holiday name wasn't officially changed until 1967. Because of its origination, many states in the South at first rejected Decoration Day and wouldn't recognize it. However, slowly the holiday was accepted by every state and remains so today. It is tradition to mark the holiday by flying the nanumerous memorial ceremonies held throughout the U.S. Another Memorial Day tradition since 1911 has been the Indianapolis 500 race.

THE LAKESIDE CLASSICS R.R. DONNELLEY & SONS CO.

The Lakeside Press Classics series was started in 1903 by Thomas E. Donnelley, then president of RR Donnelley & Sons Company and son of the founder. Thomas E. Donnelley believed that a simple book, dignified and well designed, would be an appropriate holiday gift.

In the introduction to the first Lakeside Press Classics, he wrote, "If, in a modest way this volume conveys the idea that machine-made books are not a crime against art, and that books may be plain but good, and good though not costly, its mission has been accomplished".

The basic format of the Lakeside Press Classics has remained the same for more than 100 years, testifying to the sound design of the first volume. Every 25 years the cover material is changed and type style adjusted to keep pace with current developments in fine book making. Production methods are updated as book manufacturing improvements are introduced. Current editions use electronic page composition, digital scanning and state-of-the-art computer-to-plate technologies.

Many of the early volumes consisted of the speeches and writings of noted Americans. With the publication in 1911 of The Autobiography of Gurdon Saltonstall Hubbard, the series took its present character: first-person narratives of American history, usually taken from books long out of print and not easily obtainable. Through the 1980s, the volumes emphasized history on the North American continent, including titles on the Civil War, the American Old West, early exploration and everyday frontier life. During the 1990s, as the company extended its business internationally, the series was expanded to include narratives by Americans with experiences beyond our borders.

Today, the volumes are still produced with the utmost honor, dignity and respect as when they were started in 1903. The Men and Woman of RR Donnelley still take great pride in producing this great book, even with its simplest design. I know of no other series that have such pride and enjoyable meaning behind them as "The Lakeside Classic" does.

FROM THE DIRECTOR'S DESK

I hope you enjoy this expanded edition of our newsletter! As you can see, Alice Bell has been 'swamped' with research over in the museum and new leads just keep pouring in. We are fortunate to have such a rich and interesting history and it is our job as a community to preserve these stories for generations to come. We hope you will drop in and share your own stories with us!

Music at the Library

The library has also scheduled three more acoustic music jam sessions for 17, and August 6th from 2-5 here at the library for some great old time. and bluegrass music. Bring along your favorite instrument or just come to listen, we'd love to see you! It's not often that we get great live music in town!

Tea at the Library

Friends of the Library are joining members of Hickory Homemakers to host a special tea party at the library.

You will also see an invitation to tea on the back of your newsletter on Sunday June 26th in celebration of the library's 95th anniversary. The cornerstone ceremony for Colfax Public Library happened April 14, 1916. Come enjoy a variety of unique teas from around the world served with traditional tea fare. Learn a bit about traditions of proper tea service and feel free to don your finest hats and white gloves if you'd like! While this event is free, we do ask that you register, as seating is limited.

Whether checking out a book, or enjoying one of our summer events, we look forward to seeing you at the library! Happy reading!

CIVIL WAR BEGAN 150 YEARS AGO

2011 is the sesquicentennial of the American Civil War's beginning. While there were Hoosiers who did not support the Union cause or the war in general, the state sent more than 200,000 men to fight for the preservation of the young country. During the four years of the war, 25,025 Hoosiers died., Of that number, 7,243 died during battle, while the majority fell victim to disease.

The Indiana Historical Society will mark the 150th anniversary over the next four years by publishing articles on all aspects of Indiana's role in the conflict.

Colfax Local History Museum's military uniform display received the loan of a replicated Confederate officer's uniform coat with accessories and a Union Army drummer boy's jacket & cap, thanks to collector-historian, Ken Thompson.

< See page 7 > Clinton County Review obituaries of two Civil War veterans. who served President Lincoln's funeral train which passed through Colfax, May 1, 1865 --- retracing the 1,654 mile route Mr. Lincoln traveled as presidentelect in 1861.

HISTORY MUSEUM OCAL *****

The first quarter of 2011 has been a truly amazing period of discovery in the Local History Museum. Visitors seeking genealogy information led to interesting and sometimes very moving stories, which now may be shared with our readers and visitors.

A lifelong Colfax resident shared the following article, which was discovered by a relative pursuing ancestry research:

"THE STATE AT LARGE"

Indiana Sentinel 17 Sept 1873 Clinton County .--- The little new city of Colfax, just in the extreme corner of the County, and belonging really to nobody, is becoming ambitious. According to the Crawfordsville Journal the enterprising citizens of Colfax, encouraged by the rapid growth of that town, are agitating in favor of a project to clip off a part of Tippecanoe, Boone, Clinton and Montgomery counties and organize a new county, to be call Lincoln, with Colfax as its county seat. An effort is now being made to organize a National Bank and start a newspaper. So much for a railroad crossing-----The Fair at Frankfort begins today.

Historic photographs and documents loaned by Ken Thompson have been reproduced for display in the museum collection. Joy and Chuck Watkins donated Colfax Elementary School pictures, baseball team photos, advertising items and photos, and an original wooden folding chair from the CHS 'Senior's Corner.'

Bill Groves mailed Altrix yearbooks and vintage photographs from his mother, Bernice Lois Truitt, and father, Marion Frederick Groves, CHS grads & Perry Township residents. Don Bowen loaned the 1963 Charter for the Colfax Lions Club for display. Marvin Clouser (Happy 90th B'day) and family donated a pair of Democrat Party Poll Books, an Embury railroad lantern, and Lorene (Fleming) Clouser's scrapbook which included school play programs, 1935 graduation memorabilia, and 1930's basketball schedules & her 1935 diploma in blue suede cover (loaned for display). Mary Jo (Dunbar) Barton shared vintage & new Clouser and Dunbar family photos.

Thank you one and all!

This column has been dedicated to sharing excerpts from the book about Bascom Clarke's life story, first published by American Thresherman, in 1913. Recognizing the historical significance of the book, Sept. 2010, Nabu Press reproduced the book by scanning original pages, sans index and pictures. Our library collection acquired the new version to circulate, while a signed original copy in the museum collection remains available for viewing vintage photographs.

B.B. CLARKE DIES SUDDENLY AT MADISON, WIS.

died suddenly Sunday morning at his home in Madison, Wisconsin, from an attack of neuralgia of the heart. Mr. Clarke was 78 vears old and had resided in Madison since

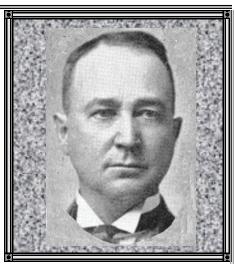

Oct. 9,1873, he married Miss Belle Watkins of Colfax, who with two sons, James L. of informed man on masonry in the north-Madison and Frank M. of Michigan survive.

B.B. Clarke is well remembered by many of our older citizens. He came to Colfax as a refugee boy from the southland at the close of the Civil War and was reared by Milton which has been widely read by Waugh. His education was meager but he gained a world of knowledge in the "school of experience and hard knocks," that served when he was six years old, his parents him well in his mature life. He was a vigorous man, full of ambition, to do big things and it seems that his desires were gratified, for B.B. Clarke was a big man with a big heart, who made friends by the score wherever he chanced to be. He was especially a friend to the poor and friendless. His work and his contributions to charity will live tion in 1863, and soon after the father's long in the memory of mankind.

From 1876 to 1880, B.B. Clarke was publisher of the Colfax Chronicle, a weekly publication which was later sold to G.H. Hamilton and G.Y. Fowler, the latter moving the plant to Frankfort and establishing the Indiana regiment and when the boys came Times. Mr. Clarke was also postmaster, and home at the close of the war, Bascom B. it was during his reign as postmaster that the post office was moved from Old Town to this part of town, which was referred to then as New Town.

Later Mr. Clarke embarked in the machinery and implement business which he carried on successfully until 1890, when he located in Madison, Wis., and continued in the same line of work and with the same company. In 1898, the publication of the

1851 - 1929

"American Thresherman" was launched in Madison and Mr. Clarke was one of the men behind the venture in the capacity of Bascom B. Clarke, editor of the American editor and stockholder. The publication Thresherman and a former Colfax publisher, was a big success and Mr. Clarke remained as its guide until death relieved him.

> He was a 33rd degree mason, he devoted considerable time and spared no expense in promoting the good work of masonry. In fact he was considered to be the best west.

> His life has been an inspiration for writers, and one Charles E.E. Whelan wrote "Bascom Clarke, the Southern Refugee," Clarke's friends and acquaintances. He was born in Virginia in 1851 and > started west in a covered wagon, with Texas as their destination, but they got no further than Arkansas where a home was established in the wilderness. The Civil War came on and Bascom's father was called into the confederate service as a Colonel. Colonel Clarke was killed in acdeath, his mother passed away, leaving Bascom an orphan in a war ridden and torn territory. He was taken into the camp of the Union Army at DuValls Bluff Ark., and fortunately fell into the hands of an Clarke came with them. The refugee boy found a good home with Capt. Milton B. Waugh near Colfax, where he grew to manhood, and got his start on the road to success and his illustrious life.

> We could go on and on extolling the good works of the man---in fact there is no end to all that could be said of him and his life. But it all can be summed up in these words: "The world was better by him being part of it."

January 31, 1924 CLARKS HILL BOY KILLED Clinton County Review

Lieutenant George Gareld Rusk, son of Mr. & Mrs. James Rusk, of Clarks Hill, was instantly killed last Saturday in an airplane accident at Brook's Field, San Antonio, Texas. Lieutenant Rusk was flying in a Curtis-Jenny training plane, which fell several hundred feet in a tail spin. Just what caused the plane to fall will probably never be known according to officials in charge of the aviation training quarters at San Antonio.

The news of the unfortunate young man's death came as a great shock to his relatives and friends here, casting a gloom over the entire community. He was one of the brightest and most industrious young men of this community and his untimely death was particularly sad because of his untiring efforts to gain an education and take his place among men who do great things in their chosen profession. He has reached the point where his future seemed most bright and his ambition to do the things that he wished were practically in his grasp when the accident occurred, which caused his death.

Lieut. Rusk was born in Clarks Hill 25 years ago. He attended the public schools here and was graduated from the Clarks Hill High School. He was always bright and energetic with a desire to advance and after completing his high school education qualified himself as a teacher by attending summer school and Purdue and Valparaiso University. He was a teacher at the Gladden's Corner school for two years and also taught at Valparaiso.

Upon the recommendation of Representative Will R. Wood of the Tenth District, he was appointed to a cadetship in West Point military academy, in 1919. He graduated with high honors from that institution in June of last year, and was made a lieutenant.,

After graduating from West Point he spent a part of last summer in Clarks Hill, leaving here last September for Fort San Houston, San Antonio, Texas, where he was killed. He had been planning a leave of absence from the army to take a course of six months at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Besides his parents, he leaves five brothers: Ray Clifford, Wilson, Leroy, and Herbert Rusk, and a sister, Margaret Rusk all of Clarks Hill. ------Clarks Hill News

Lt. George Gareld Rusk Feb 7, 1924 GIVEN MILITARY FUNERAL

The funeral services of Lieutenant George Gareld Rusk, army aviator and son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rusk, of Clarks Hill, who was killed January 26, at Brooks Field San Antonio, Texas, were held here Saturday afternoon with full military honors. The military service was most impressive and was a worthy tribute to the gallant young man who fell to his death. Clarks Hill citizens were reminded of wartime days by the olive drab of many army officers uniforms which were to be seen everywhere here Saturday.

The services were held at the Christian Church and scores of the popular young lieutenant's friends were here to do him posthumous honor. The strictly military air of the service made it very impressive to the large throng which gathered here to pay their last respects to so noble a young man.

Rev. H. J. Allentine, army chaplain at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis had charge of the services, and in well chosen words he paid a most lofty tribute to Lieutenant Rusk, who had given his life while in the service of his country. Twelve classmates of Lieutenant Rusk at West Point Military Academy, who came from Fort Benjamin Harrison, acted as pallbearers. A number of ex-servicemen, of Clarks Hill, who were personal friends of Lieutenant Rusk, acted as flower bearers. There were a large number of beautiful floral tributes, including pieces from military posts and friends.

The presence of the regular army officers and staff of the Purdue military department, headed by Capt. J. H. Wallace, commandant, together with large delegations from Indiana Guard units of the 151st infantry, at Colfax and Frankfort and other nearby places added much to the military atmosphere at the funeral services.

Interment was made in the Salem cemetery north of Clarks Hill where the last impressive military honor were paid to Lieutenant Rusk. A firing squad from Purdue fired a volley of shots over the grave, and in the distance, the last "taps" were sounded for the departed lieutenant. He was sleeping his last sleep.

Because of weather conditions, airplanes from Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill., could not make the trip to fly over the cemetery, as had been planned.---- Clarks Hill News

GEORGE PARVIS JULY 8, 1926

GUARD AT LINCOLN'S BIER DIES SATURDAY

George Parvis, civil war veteran, and one of the guard of honor at the bier of Abraham Lincoln, died at his home in Clarks Hill Saturday of a complication of diseases. He was 85 years old.

The funeral was conducted Monday afternoon from the home in Clarks Hill, Rev. McClure of Linden officiating and interments was made in the Conroe cemetery.

George Parvis was born in Lauramie township, Tippecanoe county, July 28, 1841, where he grew to manhood. At the outbreak of the civil war, he enlisted in Company 1, 86th Regiment of Indiana Volunteers in which he served for the duration of the war.

It was because of his excellent service record and his dependability, that he was accorded the honor of serving as a guard over the body of President Lincoln, and a distinction that the veteran cherished for the remainder of his life

At the close of the war he married Isabelle Campbell, who preceded him in death four years ago. He is survived by four some, Frank and Harry of Clarks Hill, Alva of near Conroe and Jesse of West Lafayette. One daughter, Belle Barnett of near Crawfordsville; seven grand children and five great grand children.

DECALVEIOUS K. YOUNG OCT 18, 1918 DEATH OF D. K. YOUNG

WELL KNOWN CITIZEN ANSWERS THE FINAL SUMMONS LAST MONDAY MORNING

Decalveious K. Young, familiarly known as Dick Young, died Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Abbie Shirley south of town following a prolonged illness from kidney trouble. While Mr. Young's death was expected at any time, it was indeed a shock to the faithful wife and other relatives who had hoped that his life might be spared. The end came peacefully and Mr. Young passed on to that realm where sufferings and earthly trials are no more to wait the coming of his loved ones. The deceased was 72 years, 10 months, and 12 days old.

Mr. Young has had a remarkable life, one that was fraught with many incidents of excitement. In his early life he was a railroader, being a conductor on the L. & I., L. & N., now the New York Central road passing through Colfax. It was in 1865 that Mr. Young was entrusted the remarkable task of conducting the train from Indianapolis to Lafayette that carried Abraham Lincoln's dead body. This task he successfully accomplished in the face of the fact that twice during the trip efforts were made to wreck the train by Southern sympathizers to get possession of the dead presidents body. Mr. young always felt that this was a great honor and was proud of the fact that he successfully accomplished the task, and it was indeed interesting to hear him repeat his experiences.

After eight years of railroading, he purchased a farm on what was known as the "Two Mile Prairie" and farmed for almost 30 years, moving from the farm to Colfax where he engaged in the meat business in the room now occupied by A. H. Guard's harness shop until 1900 when he disposed of his interests here and moved to Darlington where he embarked in the grocery business, which successfully conducted until last spring when failing health compelled him to retire, and with his wife, they came to Colfax to live with their daughter, Mrs. Shirley.

Decalveious K. Young was the son of George P. and Nancy Young and was born near Lexington, Ky., in Jessamine County. He was the third child of a family of five children, all of whom grew to man and womanhood, the first death occurring in the family about nine years ago. Those who survive, the oldest, as sister, Mrs. Mollie Loveless of Lafayette, a brother, George E. Young of this place, his wife, Mrs. Nancy Young and two children, Edgar S. Young of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Inez Shirley of Colfax.

Oct. 15, 1868 he was united in marriage to Miss Nancy H. Hollembeck, and had his life been spared another day he and devoted companion would have observed their golden wedding anniversary.

In early life he united with the Methodist church at Clarks Hill and later transferred his membership to the church in this place, and on moving to Darlington he placed his membership with the Methodist church there. He was always a devoted member of the church and lended his moral as well as financial aid to the cause of Christianity.

For over twenty-seven years he was a member of the Sharon Lodge, I.O.O.F. of Colfax and was a true and faithful member of this splendid fraternal organization. He loved the order and its good principles and was always ready to exemplify its teachings wherever applicable.

The funeral services were conducted from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Abbie Shirley, Wednesday afternoon, and in accordance with the order from the State Board of Health, that all funerals be private, the services were conducted accordingly, and only the immediate family and relatives were in attendance. Rev. Buel E. Horn pastor of the Methodist church, officiated, and the remains were laid to rest in the Plain View Cemetery.

Lincoln's Final Journey - by John Bugalla

Sec. of War Edward Stanton......assigned responsibility for the safety of the funeral train to General Daniel C. McCallum, the general manager of the United States Military Railroads.

While the operating and security procedures to be followed were military orders issued from Washington, civilian railroad employees would be responsible for their practical implementation along the route. Each of the railroads, however, approached the issue of security a bit differently. Each of the timetables that railroads used to communicate special operating instructions or procedures to employees contained different orders.

Railroad operation was, by its very nature, a dangerous business and as such, railroad employees were already strict practitioners of risk management.

The Lincoln funeral train was able to complete its journey without incident and the President was safely laid to rest in Springfield. When forced by circumstance to operate under a terrorist threat, the railroads met the challenge.

ARMY PILOT DROWNS JUNE 1, 1944

LT. ROBT. W. RAMSEY LOSES LIFE IN SUNDAY TRAGEDY IN SUGAR CREEK

Louise & Lieutenant Robert Ramsey

A tragedy without parallel in this community, as far as is known, occurred on sugar Creek, two miles southwest of New Hope United Brethren church Sunday evening about 5 o'clock when 2nd Lieut. Robert W. Ramsey, U.S. Army pilot, drowned just as baptismal rites were about to be administered to him by Rev. Ray Hinton, pastor of the New Hope church.

The young pilot and the minister had descended into the waters of the creek and were proceeding to water of the proper depth for immersion when Lieut. Ramsey stepped into water at least 10 feet deep, and sank from sight. The current was swift in the stream and Rev. Hinton was carried by it to the opposite bank of the creek.

Men among the crowd which had assembled on the creek bank for the baptismal service, quickly formed a human chain and tried to reach the spot where the pilot went down after he had vainly tried to swim against the current, but the water was so deep they could not reach the body.

Meanwhile Game Warden Earl Money and Sergeant William Davidson, of the local police department, who were not far from the scene heard cries for help and on reaching the spot Warden Money doffed his heavy clothing and swam and dived about the spot where the body was last seen, but he could not locate it. About the same time others of the party had gone to a nearby farm home and notified the Lebanon police department. Lebanon policemen and state policemen arrived within a short time with a boar and grappling hooks and after about half an hour's search the body was recovered from ten feet of water.

Efforts at resuscitation were made but since probably an hour had elapsed since the pilot went down these efforts failed.

The body was taken to the LaFollette & Crain mortuary in Thorntown and later was taken to the Goodwin Bros. funeral home in Frankfort.

Lieutenant Ramsey was a few days past 21 years of age. He was born May 17, 1923 near Thorntown, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ramsey. He was graduated from Darlington high school with the class of 1941 and on May 16, 1942 was married to Mildred L. Bryant, a school classmate.

Only last Thursday, Lieut. Ramsey received his silver pilot's wings and commission at Stuttgart Army Air Base at Stuttgart, Arkansas. Following his graduation he and his wife came home on leave and at the morning worship service at New Hope church Sunday he united with the church expressing a desire to be baptized in the afternoon.

A coincident in connection with the tragedy was the receipt by the Times of a photograph from Stuttgart Field showing Mrs. Ramsey pinning his pilot's wings on her husband's blouse. The picture was received in the mails Sunday morning and yesterday was presented to the grief-stricken wife and parents.

Besides the wife and parents, Lieut. Ramsey leaves a brother, Capt. Morris Ramsey, who is stationed with the army at Fort Bragg, North Carolina.

Prior to enlisting in the Army Air Corps on November 29, 1942, Lieut. Ramsey was employed by the Donnelly Printing Company at Crawfordsville. He was called into active service on February 20, 1943.

Rev. Ray Hinton, who narrowly escaped the fate of Lieut. Ramsey, was reported near nervous collapse yesterday.

Among relatives, in addition to the wife and parents, who witnessed the tragedy were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thornton, cousins of Rev. Hinton and the pastor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hinton of this city.

Capt. Allan Sheldon, chaplain of the Wakeman General Hospital, Camp Atterbury, Ind. also witnessed the drowning. In the forenoon he had been the speaker at a special service held at New Hope, honoring the boys and girls from the church and surrounding areas, now serving in the armed forces.

Gravel dipping in the creek at the point where the drowning occurred has been carried on for several years, the pits being known as the Bennington pits,. These are deep and the creek in its course passes over many of these depressions.

Funeral services for Lieut.. Ramsey will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at New Hope church. The body will lie in state at the church from 1 until 2 o'clock Wednesday.

COLFAX MAN VICTIM IN FOUL PLAY PLOT GEORGE ALLISON DOPED AND ROBBED, CORONER HOLDS MURDERERS ARE UNKNOWN

CONTENTS OF STOMACH SHOW CHLORAL HYDRATE IN SUFFICIENT QUANTITY TO CAUSE DEATH

That George Allison of Colfax was a victim of foul play was the verdict of Dr. Marion Carter, coroner of Clinton county. The verdict was filed late Tuesday with the clerk of the circuit court at Frankfort. Death was due to a lethal dose of chloral hydrate administered in an unknown manner and by an unknown person, says the coroner's verdict.

What future steps will be taken are as yet problematical as they must be taken by the state, and Prosecutor Guenther of Frankfort is now engaged in the trial case in the Clinton circuit court.

George Allison, an old soldier, died October 26. He was found unconscious in bed by his wife when she awoke and died before a physician, who had been summoned by the wife, could reach the house. At the time there was talk of some mystery in connection with his death and the stomach was taken from the body and sent to Indianapolis, where its contents were analyzed by H. A. Duden. His report sent to Coroner Carter is to the effect that chloral hydrate, a poison, was found in sufficient quantity as to cause death. The stomach was sent away some three weeks ago and the report was made to the coroner at Frankfort Monday. This was followed by his filing his report.

Said He Was Doped

George Allison is said to have remarked to a man residing at Colfax, the name of the man being in possession of the coroner, that he had been doped and robbed. If he gave any names they are being kept secret. It is known that Mr. Allison made a loan of $200 on his property at Colfax, placing the money in the bank at that place. It is known that he drew $15 from the bank at one time, $10 at another and $10 at another, all within a few days of his death.

Investigation failed to show where he had spent a single dollar of the money and after his death no money could be found about the house. Within a few hours after his death rumors of there having been foul play were circulating in and around Colfax and the coroner held a post mortem examination with the result that the case warranted the stomach being removed and sent away to a chemist.

Frankfort Daily News 12-14-1912 GRAND JURY REPORTS WITH 10 INDICTMENTS

FINISH LABORS LASTING WEEK THIS MORNING

...The special session convened with Prosecuting Attorney Charles G. Guenther, Monday morning, following a call issued by Judge Combs last week. During the course of their labors about 30 witnesses from Colfax, Perry and Sugar Creek townships were summoned to appear before the inquisitorial body.

It was generally supposed that the mysterious death of George Allison of Colfax was the principal object of the special session. Coroner Carter filed his report with the county clerk several days ago in which he found that Allison came to his death as the result of a dose of chloral hydrate administered in an unknown manner and by an unknown person. A few days afterward the grand jury was called in special session.

Note: Witnesses on the coroner's report include William A. Venus, Minerva Allison, Nellie E. Venus, and Benjamin R. Smith. --Archivist of Clinton County Clerk's Office, Sue Marcum

Craig Allison of Sacramento, CA, stopped by Colfax Local History Museum to request any information regarding the 1912 death of George W. Allison, his great-great grandfather. Since Colfax Library opened in 1917, our microfilm collection begins in that year. Microfilm research in local history departments at Crawfordsville and Frankfort public libraries revealed newspaper accounts, coroner's reports, and grand jury results.

Note: George W. Allison was portrayed by John Gunter in "The Walk Through Plain View" in 2003.

THE SUDDEN DEATH OF A CIVIL WAR VETERAN

George Allison Succumbs to Attack of Heart Trouble at Home in Colfax

Awakened by the peculiar breathing of her husband about 5 o'clock yesterday morning, Mrs. George Allison of Colfax, found that he had suffered an attack of heart trouble and before medical assistance could be summoned he died. Mr. Allison had been in failing health for some time, but had not complained and was apparently no worse when he retired Friday night than he had been for some time

The deceased was a drummer boy in the army, having tried to enlist as a soldier, but being too young to bear arms, he went as a drummer and served throughout the war. He had lived at Colfax for a number of years and recent years had sold medicine through the county, traveling around in a buggy. He leaves a wife and two sons at Indianapolis and a daughter, Mrs. Milligan at Clark's Hill.

Kansas resident, Walter Novak, great-grandson of Mary L. Jenkins (1879 -1968), stopped by the Museum to inquire about the Jenkins Blacksmith shop in Colfax, referred to in the History of Clinton County Indiana c.1886. Sylvester died of Typhoid fever in 1890. He rests in Plainview Cemetery.
